

Analysis of Financial Statements and Business

The aim of the Analysis of Financial Statements and Operations course is for students to understand their importance in providing corporate information and to familiarize themselves with the content of the basic financial statements by using numerical indicators, vertical analysis, horizontal analysis, and trend analysis to conclude. Finally, familiarization with the analysis of liquidity, efficiency, solvency, and profitability and understanding of the concepts of creative accounting and manipulation of profits aims at the complete picture of the analysis of both the economic and the narrative part of the financial statements.