

International Trade & Organizations

The role of international organizations, the significance of international cooperation for global peace and development, as well as the understanding of contemporary globalization process are the main themes of this course. This is divided further in the political dimension of globalization and its evolution over time through synergies among states, international organizations (e.g. United Nations, World Bank, World Trade Organizations, International Labor Organization etc.) and analytical approaches (e.g. realism, idealism) regarding international organization and globalization process.
