

Macroeconomics

Upon successful completion of the course students are expected to have: a) Knowledge to understand the functioning of the macroeconomic environment (Total consumption, savings, investments, public expenditure, taxes, imports and exports, b) Skills to be able to understand the state of an economy from a macroeconomic perspective and to argue in proposed economic policies, c) Ability to analyze, study and present a macroeconomic size and to satisfactorily interpret its evolution.