

Principles of Management

The scientific administration and management theory are the main topics that this course is based on regarding the theory for organizations. The course is based on a thorough analysis and understanding of contemporary organizational structures of corporations and potentials regarding Human Resources, Strategic plan, Management structure, Control, Leadership, Technological innovation etc. These fields are the main core of the course and are associated with the theory of organizational structure and types of corporations (e.g. sector, size), in combination with best practices and benchmarking analysis.